Part I: A Summer's Reading

1. (iv) stays at home all day
2. (ii) reads newspapers after work
3. (iii) finished reading many books
4. Sophie's character in the story is there to show the contrast between her and George and their different attitudes towards life. They both came from the same immigrant family and grew up in the same house. They both come from a poor background and yet, she managed to rise above the difficulties. She is trying very hard to provide for her family and she shows responsibility and maturity. George, on the other hand, is very different. He is lazy and doesn't do anything all day long. He keeps dreaming of a better life, but unlike his sister, since he doesn't work or study, he can't achieve his dream.

5. Thinking skill: explaining cause and effect

Answer: George feels this way because Mr. Cattanzara knows all about his lie, and this makes George feel terrible. He lied about reading 100 books and he avoided Mr. Cattanzara for a long time, and now that Mr. Cattanzara has confronted him about it and George feels guilty and ashamed. He is also afraid that Mr. Cattanzara will tell everyone that George had lied, and that he will lose their respect.

Part II: Thank You M'am

6. (iii) is walking alone at night
7. He wants to buy blue suede shoes
8. (iv) She prepares dinner for them
9. (ii) job
10. Thinking skill: inferring / uncovering motives

Answer: Mrs. Jones says this to Roger when he asks her to let him go. She tells him that to make him understand that he is the one who chose to try and steal from her so he must take responsibility and suffer the consequences of his actions. She didn't know him before this event, but after he tried to steal from her and she saw his dirty face, she decided that she would not release him so quickly, not until she is able to teach him a lesson.

Part III:11. The Treasure of Lemon Brown:

The above quote refers to the fact that a treasure is not a treasure because it cost a lot of money, it is a treasure because it has an emotional meaning to the person who owns it. This is very similar to the message that Lemon Brown is trying to teach Greg in the story. Lemon keeps a valuable treasure: yellowed newspaper clippings and a battered harmonica. These items look like garbage when Greg first looks at them, since they seem very inexpensive. However, to Lemon, these items are the most valuable things he has, because they represent his past as a blues singer and his last memory from his son, Jesse.

12. The Road Not Taken:

The above quote talks about the fact that our decisions influence our future: the choices we make will determine the person we become. This connects to the message of the poem "The Road Not Taken". In the poem, the speaker must make a choice and he stands for a long time before making his decision. He does this because he knows that whichever road he picks, there will be consequences later on in his life. In the end he sighs and says that his choice "has made all the difference". He is referring to that fact that his decision shaped the person he became, just like the quote says.
